

With 6,300 employees in research, teaching and administration and its unique profile, TU Dortmund University shapes prospects for the future: the interaction between engineering and natural sciences as well as social and cultural studies drives both technological innovations and progress in knowledge and methodology. It is not only the roughly 34,300 students who benefit from this.

The Faculty of Business and Economics at TU Dortmund University is seeking to fill the position of a commencing as soon as possible. The successful candidate will specialize in research and teaching in the field of “Microeconomics” within the general field of economics.

TU Dortmund University is seeking an outstanding individual and well-established researcher in the field of theoretical, empirically founded theoretical, or structural microeconomics with relevant publications in recognized venues with peer-review.

Candidates are expected to contribute to the faculty’s research areas as well as to planned collaborative projects within the University Alliance Ruhr. Candidates must also be ready to be actively involved in training Ph.D. students, in particular at the Ruhr Graduate School in Economics.

An appropriate contribution to the faculty’s curriculum, also in English, is required. We expect candidates to be willing to raise third-party funds.

The successful candidate will possess social and leadership skills and be willing to be involved in academic self-governance.

Preconditions for employment are specified in § 36 and § 37 HG NRW (law governing universities in NRW).

TU Dortmund University strives to increase the number of women in academic research and teaching and therefore explicitly encourages women to apply.

TU Dortmund University is an equal opportunity employer and gives preference to candidates with disabilities if equally qualified.

TU Dortmund University supports the compatibility of work and family life and promotes gender equality in science.
